"My Trip To Europe"

(By RICHARD LEHMAN, Deceased)

EDITORIAL EXPLANATION:

Friends of the late Richard Lehman, in Hamlin, will be interested to know that during the past summer when Richard was on his trip to his old home in Germany, the Hamlin Woman's Literary Club, was making out their Year Book Schedule, with "Arm Chair Travels" as their course of study. It was fitting and proper that Mr. Lehman, an appreciated citizen of Hamlin should be asked to appear on the program sometime during the year and give a talk on his trip to Europe. He accepted this honor and the day before his tragic death, the book was printed. When his brothers, Ernest and Otto were here, they learned of this and found notes Richard had left, and requested that one of them be permitted to assemble the points of the trip, as far as possible, and send them to the Club to be read when the time came. Had Richard lived, he would have read his paper Friday, November 27.

In memory of Mr. Lehman, the Club heard the following account of the trip, as prepared by Carl Lehman, brother of Richard. Carl says in his explanation to the Club: "I used Richard's notes he had prepared on the subject, however his notes were made up for his understanding and I had to use my own judgment. I know how much better Richard could have done and spoken about all these things... I believe Richard's impressions were really the impressions I have tried to convey in this story."

The paper was read by Mrs. H. O. Cassle.

PART TWO

(This is the second and final section of the report of the late Mr. Lehman to the Woman's Literary Club of Hamlin).

SCENES ABOUT HIS OLD HOME

"My stay in Mannheim really was the first taste of Germany proper, because on the train I only had a chance to admire landscape, God-made beauty—but when I came to Mannheim, my first impression was so different to the impression I had received looking out of the train. I found a different Germany to what it was when I left it 7 years ago. The thing which disturbed me most was the uniforms one saw everywhere—I mean by that the soldiers. Soldiers everywhere and it wasn't a pleasant feeling for an American, because we know too well, and despite it, the thing called war; we know that soldiers are here for war that means such an excessive number like Germany has. And may I say right now, that as I became more acquainted with German affairs again, the terrible feeling that war is in the air, the feeling as if one would be sitting on a volcano, didn't leave me—and right then and there I thanked my Lord, again to be fortunate to have the privilege to be an American and live in the land of the free. The contrast between God-made peaceful-looking countryside I looked at from the train and the man-made regimentation of the people which creates everything but a peaceful impression, made me feel especially sad.

"On we went again in the train toward the city of Kusel, the home of my sister; every spot we came through was a familiar sight to me—it was my home once and memories are not dead. Again I would say, that it would take me too much away from the subject to tell you about the reception when we arrived: to see my sister's children, a boy of 13 years whom I was to take to America—and a girl of 8 years, both splendid looking, was something that gave me more pleasure and happiness than I have words to express. I don't want to forget my brother-in-law, who always impresses me as the very picture of good character and energy. I may mention that he lost an eye in the war and being shot through the head, he is not a strong man any more. Still and all, he reared a nice family and overcomes so many sufferings caused by his war-injuries that many another man would have despaired. Will you

COLWELL BEGINS BUILDING AGAIN

Many years ago there appeared in Hamlin a smiling, happy-go-lucky, all-around jolly good fellow, and his wife was just as good a mixer as her husband, both bent on making a start in life, right here in Hamlin—they came, they stayed, and their names are Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Colwell.

"Bernie" started in as a low-wage baker, worked about "umpteenth" hours per day and night, did not have a thing except a smile, and big muscles. He worked, his wife worked, and not one inch backward but always forward. Mr. Colwell was not afraid of work and neither was he afraid of investing his savings, and getting under obligations, that seemed almost reckless to some people. He worked and is still at it.

The latest venture for Colwell, is the purchase of the Miss Rawls building, or site, the north fifty feet of the concrete skeleton building on Central Avenue, just north of the Dillard Hotel. This structure was erected by the late B. S. Ferguson and all but the walls were consumed by fire several years ago.

Mr. Colwell is restoring the front fifty foot of his part, and in this he is building a set of apartments, which will be his home, making the sleeping quarters on the second floor.

The front of the building is to be used for some kind of mercantile business, the exact nature of which has not yet been revealed. At any rate this is one improvement badly needed in the business section and Mr. Colwell is to be congratulated for his enterprise. He has proven that Hamlin is a good place to live in provided one is a hustler.

excuse me for talking about my family, but we brothers just can't help but feel proud of our family and therefore I can't help but mention it whenever occasion arises.

"Here I was now, the goal of my trip from far away Texas in Southern Germany. There were so many things in the first days, we had to ask each other, that one did not think of anything but just stay around and enjoy the feeling of being united with the family.

"I mentioned before that life in Germany, today, is taken up with much politics and economical questions—that means everybody is conscious of it. Those matters are put before the people daily and are made a part of their lives. I also used, before, the word "regimented" and it didn't take much observation to see to what tremendous extent the German people are regimented under the Nazi-regime.

"Right in the small town where I stayed, again and again I saw uniforms, colors and types I didn't know anything about when I lived in Germany. Youths marching in military formations became soon a common sight. It wasn't the care-free marching we Americans enjoy seeing a parade; oh, no, it impressed me as the very determining gesture of youths, stubborn and world-defying.

"Now, let me explain, where all those uniformed people come from: When Germany became a democracy after the war, the treaty of Versailles permitted them an army of 100,000 men. The happenings of the years after the war are known to us and these happenings prepared the fertile ground for dissatisfaction amid the masses and for demagogues to rise. Those things happened in Germany; people, and especially the young generation, turned to extremes, that is extremes in politics. I want you to realize, that there were no two parties in Germany like we have here in America; there were at least a dozen or more. German mind was not used to democracy like the people here and when times became so bad, so many demagogues appeared telling them that all ills of the country are due to democracy. Among the demagogues one was especially successful, an Austrian by birth, a former house-painter, Adolf Hitler. He used the methods of the middle ages, that is he incited the masses with race and religious hatred, blamed every ill of the nation on one or the other of the two things and in addition to that promised them everything. It was just like fishing and finding the right bait; those German masses, dissatisfied

HAMLIN ALL SET FOR MERRY CHRISTMAS

Once again the beautiful red, orange, blue and yellow glow of the Christmas lights are seen on Hamlin's main street. The electricians of the West Texas Utilities Company had them ready for operation Tuesday night, and when the "lights" come on even the older people step up briskly with the spirit of the season.

Not only the street lighting but the various business houses are more than lovely this year, with Christmas decorations. The Chamber of Commerce should offer a few prizes for the prettiest windows or inside decorations in the business houses. This would bring out Art and pride in making the city lovelier than ever.

Not much yet has been said of the programs for Christmas, but by next week, perhaps that feature will be emphasized.

Hamlin community did not have the greatest harvest year in its history, but did have more than some sections of the West. No one doubts the improvements shown, over other recent years. In our decorations, in our feelings we should carry the emblem of contentment, whatever the station.

There will be two more issues of the Herald before Christmas Day, Friday, Dec. 18, and the mails will carry the paper to the readers this Christmas one or two days early, meaning Wednesday or Thursday before Christmas Day on Friday... and that will end 1936 publications. The First day of the year 1937 will be Herald Friday. So it all fits in well to say Merry Christmas and later to say Happy New Year.

ABOUT THE KING:—Suddenly this United States of our has come to realize that we, too, have an interest in the King of England. Who is it that has not learned through the press, the radio or from some talk, that King Edward VIII of England wants to marry and the woman in question is an American woman? We say who has not heard of it.

Nothing except a war in which England or this country was embroiled, could attract more attention. Not that it is anything unusual for a man to want to marry a beautiful, brilliant woman, but the fact, that a king in selecting a wife is expected to choose one from a family of royalty, marry and make her queen and continue the strain of royalty on and on, regardless of physical factors. BUT King Edward seems to be setting up some new ideas for royalty—he wants to marry from choice and not from precedents of an old custom, with all of its frills and foolishness. Yes, King Edward met another man's wife, Mrs. Wallis Simpson, and of all the women in the world she has met his every fancy, and here is the main cog in the wheel that brings about so much talk and interest. Mrs. Simpson is a Baltimore, U. S. A. woman, and evidently possesses queenly qualities and meets all that King Edward wants in a wife. Perhaps had she been unmarried, even though a commoner, there would not be so many grounds for objection. The laws of England granted her a divorce from Mr. Simpson, for cause set up by English law and the King feels, that in spite of the fact she is not of royalty and a divorcee, he should have his personal happiness in marrying the woman. Much has been said and can yet be said but nothing has happened in many hundred years in English life that ALL people have such an interest in. Sentiment is strong in England and especially in America for the King to marry whom he pleases—even though he is setting up new ideas of how a king should live and reign.

THE KING ABDICATES

DUKE OF YORK, KING

Since the above was placed in type, the world has seen English affairs hasten to climax. King Edward VIII is no longer King—he abdicated Thursday and by the time you read this a New King, the Duke of York will be in line for the Coronation and become King George VI. Thus we see the power of a pretty woman—a man desperately in love, and one who had rather be an independent English gentleman

Clifton Preaching Goes Into Second Week Attracting Larger Audience, Each Service

The first week of the revival was hindered by the bad weather but Sunday came with a pretty day and we had 312 in Sunday School with more than 200 in B. T. U. We are expecting some great services this week with a banner day this Sunday.

Brother Clifton is bringing some good messages. People who come enjoy everyone of them. I think he is the best preacher we have ever had with us in a meeting and we have had many good men.

There are many people in our town who call themselves Baptists who never go to church. They have left their membership back home and have quit serving God. Now, really what does God think about folks who treat him this way. We have a good church with a good fellowship. The church not only needs you but you need the church.

Many say I am not able to attend services. Do you think God will excuse you on this account. Come and be with us in the closing services of the meeting. It will be a blessing to you.

We especially urge the unsaved to attend our services. They will do you good.

We want 400 in Sunday School and 300 in B. T. U. this Sunday. You can help us reach our goal.

The meeting will close Sunday night. Let God's children pray much this week and have the woman he wants for a wife, and his freedom than be a "king-prisoner". Volumes will be printed on this subject. It is the greatest news item of recent years. The greatest romance of all time.

J. HENRY LITTLETON, Pastor.

METHODIST CHURCH

Sunday School at 9:45. Preaching at eleven. This will be a special service. We are asking the stewards and trustees to be present and sit in a body. At the close of the service we will install the stewards and trustees for the new conference year.

Let each member remember to bring your offering for the Orphanage. I wonder if there are not two or three who will pay ten dollars each to this worthy cause. Then are there not ten who will pay five each and then a number who will pay twenty-five. Let each one come and bring whatever offering you can. It will be very much appreciated by myself and those who have the Orphanage in charge. There are four hundred boys and girls in this home depending upon you and me. Let us not disappoint them. If we will spend one-half as much on these boys and girls as we spend for presents for our own children they will be well cared for.

If you are not worshipping elsewhere we would be delighted to have you worship with us. You are always welcome with us.

Sincerely, H. W. HANKS, Pastor.

AN ABUSED AMUSEMENT IS A HARD MASTER

The cheerful little meal and then more cards until six o'clock when Olive went home for an hour's sleep; an abstracted dinner, and a change of costume for the evening game.

By KATHLEEN NORRIS
THE anxious face of a handsome young woman looked out from the morning papers a few weeks ago; her photograph was taken in a jail, she had just been sentenced for passing bad checks.

She is the daughter of a distinguished professional man; she had an interesting childhood of travel and unusual contacts; she made a good marriage. It was only when they had been married for several months that her young doctor husband made his first mild protest against her passion for cards.

All this woman wants to do in this life is play cards. Contract bridge is her one interest; she is happy only when she can play it day and night. Her home—the beautiful little country home with a garden that was her father's wedding gift to her—meant nothing to her. Her husband meant nothing; she would not have children. Disorder, dirt, debt, these were the only conditions the husband knew in the three years they were together. Olive never did anything but play bridge.

She slept late every morning; the maid carried in her coffee at ten; at eleven she was dressed and ready for the day. She went then to the house of some friend, and they and two others of their sort played a rubber before lunch. Then the cheerful little meal—the sort of meal that women love—and then more cards until six o'clock, when Olive went home dreamily for an hour's sleep; an abstracted dinner, and a change of costume for the evening game.

The only tragedy she ever knew was when she could not get up a good game. Some sort of game always was possible; sometimes she even coaxed her husband into playing.

After two years of this they rented the house and went to a boarding-house, and Olive went on playing bridge. She took lessons in bridge; she read articles about bridge. When her husband asked for a divorce his plea was that his wife had no other interest in life but the game. He got his divorce, and Olive got $150 a month.

She lived in a small room, she skimped meals, she went on playing bridge. But save as she would, and gamble as she would, she couldn't make ends meet, so she got a job. The job was in a cafeteria, as cashier, and a few weeks ago Olive cashed a check for an old patron, took a tracing of the signature, and presently forged it on a check for $100. Now she will spend two years in jail. Her mother died of grief; she was in the court when the sentence was pronounced; went home crushed and heart-broken, and never left her bed again.

It seems incredible that a mere game, an amusement intended to fill an idle hour now and then, could so take possession of a handsome, well-born and well-educated woman; but this is a true story, and not the only one of its kind. There is a certain fever bred of card playing, or of gambling of any sort, that takes possession of apparently sensible folk sometimes, and carries them far away from their moorings, blinds them to all other considerations. No drug ever has its victims in a crueler grip than cards. And women, who have more leisure, and who do everything with swifter force than men, are often natural gamblers. Middle-aged, idle, perhaps bored with the dull routine of respectable middle-class existence, they find a tremendous excitement in card playing, and the more they have of it the more they want it.

Most pleasures grow into vices if we give them free play. Perhaps that is why some of the sterner Puritan sects prohibited them even in their innocent forms. Races, roulette, dancing, eating, driving, card playing, drinking all can be safe enough enjoyments. But they rarely are. Most of us drink and eat too much, and destroy our lives too soon, as a penalty. Thousands of men spend their lives, and millions of dollars are wasted, in trying to teach human beings to be temperate; the doctors go on preaching, books are written, the example of suffering and death is always before us, but we never learn.

For example, Europe has legally banished the roulette wheel. "On the races," they say in France, "a man loses his own money. On the wheel he loses his firm's money."

So roulette, discredited and disgraced, was banished to the south, and set up formally in the tiny principality of Monaco. The Prince permitted it there.

But I don't like Monte Carlo. The air there is positively sickening to me; it is poisoned with human misery.

The residents there are not permitted to gamble. Oh, no, the authorities see to that.

Once past the careful inspection and identification at the door you find a dream of amusement and interest inside; a musical entertainment, vaudeville, refreshments, deep restful chairs, deep carpets, soft lights.

"Oh, why can't life always be like this, Tom!" I heard one young woman say excitedly, as she and a man came in. "I could sit here forever, listening to the music and watching the types, and drinking cool things!"

Beyond this introductory stage of luxury and beauty are the great salons where the tables are. Just the familiar green cloth with the number painted on it, and the spinning bowl of the wheel in which the little ivory ball sings and sings and clinks itself silent.

Groups of motionless persons packed about the tables; the heads go forward; discs click against the croupiers' rakes. How quickly, how impersonally they draw it toward them, the precious money that means meals and shoes and freedom for the anxious-faced men and women who watch. A little, very little, is pushed back. The croupiers never comment; they never say, "Ah, too bad!" or "Better luck." They know that the losers will vanish into the darkness and despair of the world's lowest slums and dreary; they know that the winners will come back and back until they lose. The proprietors of a roulette wheel can't lose, no matter what they do. They are gambling on the weakness of human nature, and human nature doesn't change.

All over the world schools, clinics, lectures, teachers, mothers, clubs and associations are trying to build up morality—trying to better the average of human goodness by only the hundredth part of a hundredth part here and there. The gambling tables are on the other side; they are creating misery and moral breakdown, year after year.

"Why, but you're warned," they argue reasonably. "You know what thinking people have decided about gambling. You know it's illegal in well governed communities. You don't have to play."

My little woman who had thought she could live in a Casino was waiting in a chair by the door when I came by three hours later. She was a sick-looking girl then; white-faced and tense. Tom was "arranging something with the cashier." I asked her if she had won.

"At first we did," she said, in that voice one comes to know in Monte Carlo. Tom came to talk to her; they conferred. "Yes, Papa will, Papa'll send it." I heard her say, quickly and nervously. "We can cable him."

Their evening's amusement had cost them seventy-two hundred dollars. Yet they had started in modestly enough with a stake of one hundred francs, about five dollars then, apiece.

No wonder the Casino can supply refreshments, music, chairs. Couldn't any merchant in the world insure you that, if you were like to hand him a profit of seven thousand dollars for four hours of it?

Because I used to know her mother when Olive, whose story starts this article, was a dear little dark-eyed girl, I went to see Olive in jail the other day. She was playing solitaire bridge; she said there wasn't a woman in the place who could play a decent game of bridge. She spoke of Monte Carlo; said that she wished she could go there; she was confident that she could pick up any amount in no time.

There's no cure for her. But there might be a hint in her story for certain other young wives.

"52 YEARS IN JONES CO."

Silver Anniversary Week Being Observed by West Texas Utility Co.

The West Texas Utilities Company soon after declaring preferred stock dividends totaling over $109,000, announced it will observe its Silver Anniversary this week, choosing the Christmas season for the event.

This pioneer utility organization had its origin twenty-five years ago—1911—at Abilene. It has since expanded to include 160 communities in 49 counties, stretching across Central West Texas from Kimble County on the south to Dallam County in the Panhandle. General offices are in Abilene; District offices are located in McCamey, San Angelo, Ballinger, Cisco, Stamford, Quanah, Childress and Dalhart, as well as in Abilene.

It has provided Hamlin with electric power for many years.

Publication of an anniversary souvenir in the form of a newspaper magazine section is one of the main features planned by the company to celebrate the birthyear. Over 50,000 copies were sent out to customers and stockholders in the 45,000 square-mile territory.

President Price Campbell announced that intensified efforts will be made during the forthcoming years to multiply the uses of electricity, and spread the benefits to more users, declaring that "the greater the benefits, the greater the consumption, and in turn the lower the steps in unit costs of electric service thereby all four interested parties profit (1) this "Land of Opportunity" West Texas territory, (2) the customers, (3) the employees, and (4) the stockholders."

He reminded the quarter million people served by the company that "average rates have been lowered 70 per cent during the last 15 years—never raised." The recent dividend, he said, was declared in the face of government interference and increased taxes, amounting the last three years to 1.7 times—near twice as much for government tax expenditures as has been paid to all shareholders—owners of the company. This preferred stock dividend was made possible by unusual operating economies and intensive new business efforts of the organization. No earnings are yet possible for the common stock holders and none have been for five years.

While gross revenue remains 30 per cent below 1929's peak figures due to rate reductions and sale of gas property, kilowatt-hour sales have reached a new all time peak during the last 12 months, he announced. Large increased industrial power usage together with some increased domestic service usage was credited with the hike. This dividend, equivalent to quarterly requirements of $1.50 a share, is the first full dividend basis since July, 1933, partly paid then from reserves, and the stock is now $9.50 per share in arrears. Seventy per cent of preferred stockholders are West Texans.

and incited as they were, took to Hitler's bait. The promises were music to their ears; the race and religious persecution, the attack on Masonry, everything worked the miracle to bring this man Hitler to power and the world today only knows too well what a great threat to peace he is. Now, he knew that Germans always liked uniforms, he knew that a dictator only can exist by having great armies, he knew that he must regiment (mold) the people into one mass, that is Nazis, into people who will not dare to think in their own terms but let the party do their thinking for them. He did the job and the world some day will see bloody results of this job of his. Every man and woman, every child is forced to belong to an organization which Nazifies them. No organization which has other cultural purposes, such as Masonry, etc., is permitted to exist; they must be "gleichgeschaltet"—that means incorporated under the leadership and mental influence of the Nazi-party, to make sure that people learn to think only in Nazi-terms but not to think their own way. The young people in school are Nazified; this being a part of the schools' teaching. They are made members of a youth-organization called the Hitler-Youth. Of course they wear uniforms, brown shirts and are trained along military lines. Then comes the youths who are out of school. Hundred of thousands of them belong to the "S.-S." that is "Storm-Troops" wear brown uniforms and being of very military character. Further, there is the "S. A." a picked "storm-troop" wearing black-uniforms and being fully militarized. You will note that this already would make together the nucleus of a big army; but that is not enough! There is the regular army, tremendous in number and the most efficient in training. They are conscripted troops, that means drafted for at least two years service. Oh, no, this is not the end as yet, of the military set-up: there is another training for young men just before they are old enough for military service. One calls them labor-service, but their real training is a military one. You will see, that Germany is an armed camp today. I couldn't feel free in such an armed camp. You will ask, what is the idea of doing such things and how do the German people stand for it? The idea is to create such a powerful Germany as to be able to defy the world, a thing Hitler is doing steadily and will do in the future. Why do the German people stand for it? Well, the older people, the people with moderated ideas and experience can not say anything; a wrong word and they will land in concentration camp (jail). They must pretend to be satisfied even though in their hearts they may be very dissatisfied. They can't talk to their best friends—because they are afraid of their own shadow. And they are steadily fed with propaganda, a propaganda as poisonous and inhuman as the world never experienced before. The younger people are kept busy and kept satisfied with promises of coming to glory and nationalism that borders on insanity. Don't think that they know anything about what the world thinks of such dictatorship; no, there is no free press there—there is no free speech. The press is strictly censored and only can print what the government tells them; no speaker, except the ones who preach Nazism could dare to talk unless he wants to go to jail or have his head chopped off. There are no labor-unions; radio entertainment must be a strictly Nazi affair. No free exchange of opinion over the radio. For the reason that the people do not hear the other side, the real, truth, they must not dare to listen to a foreign (French or English) station. Even religion must be co-ordinated, preachers must preach to suit the Nazis. People of Jewish belief are persecuted for no other reason but to incite the masses, to have somebody to blame the ills of Germany on. The same stands good for Masonry which also is blamed for many ills.

"You probably would like to hear the standing of the woman in Germany. Nazism made the woman primarily a house-keeper; she is eliminated to the greatest extent of daily life outside of her home. The party's slogan is "Kirche, Kueche and Kinder" which means "for the woman there are only three things, Church, kitchen and rearing children." Yes, they even encourage large families because after all, they need soldiers.

"The standard of living among the masses is much lower than here in America. Butter and eggs for example are not only very expensive, Grain for flour is controlled by the but often not readily to be secured. government and raw materials such as copper and other metal, cotton, etc., is very scarce because Germany must import this from other countries and the government restricts this import to materials only needed for building up the war-machine.

There is a lot of building going on—lots of street building also; but most of the buildings seem to be for party purposes. Offices, etc., for the party while the street and highway building is done with the idea of having short routes in case of war.

You readily can see that the whole set-up is aimed only at one thing, that is to keep a dictator in power; many people in their hearts feel depressed and know better than to believe such demagogues of which Germany today is full; but they must keep quiet, no matter how bad; things are forced on them.

"I hope these explanations are clear enough, to make you understand the situation there. If one of you or anyone who is not familiar with Germany and did not speak the language of the country had made the trip as I did, you would have come back and told us so different, that is, you would have told us of the beauties of Germany, the cleanliness of its cities and villages; you would have told of the courtesies the people showed you while you traveled; would have spoken of the life which apparently is normal; you would have spoken of the industry which seemingly is very busy. You would have spoken like that because you went there to have a good time, you would have seen the high-spots of the country, but you wouldn't have taken time to look UNDER THE COVER AS I DID. NOBODY WOULD HAVE SHOWN YOU AND POINTED OUT to you that this beautiful cover, meaning by that Germany of today, is all a cover under which much suffering and hardship lays, under which a busy industry prepares feverishly for war.

"Yes, Germany, that is Germany that God made, its mountains, its rivers and forests, the German cities built and preserved in its quaint beauty, are magnificent. The German people, that is, the older generation, are friendly people. When one looks at all these things one can not feel but sorry that such a beautiful spot on this earth should be in such bad hands as it is under Nazi regime.

"I traveled a lot after leaving my sister's home; I saw much beautiful scenery, so many beautiful cities such as Munich, Stuttgart, etc., that it would take me hours yet to tell you. I again and again can repeat that Germany is a most beautiful country. If the unhealthy spirit of a dictator and the steady feeling of being caught there in the turmoil of war wouldn't exist, I think there would hardly be any country an American would like better to visit than Germany.

"The end of June came and it was time to leave for home. As much as I regretted to leave my sisters and their families, I can't help but tell you, that I was glad to go back to America. The hardest thing was to see my sister part from her boy, whom I took along to America. You mothers will understand best, what it means to send a child so far away.

"We went to Amsterdam, Holland, the biggest city in Holland. There we visited relatives and friends. This is a city of beauty. Old, antique and beautiful buildings, places of Art everywhere. The time I spent there, I used well to show my nephew all the spots of interest and the most impressive sight for him seemed to be our visit to the Riksmuseum. There the world's most famous paintings are assembled and one could spend weeks there admiring them.

"Again we had to go to where I landed originally, that is Rotterdam, about two hours run from Amsterdam and boarded the ship. This time it was another ship, the "Staten-dam," a very big ship, the biggest of the Line. I wish you could have seen the eyes of my little nephew when seeing such a big ship. It would be too lengthy to tell you details of my return trip. But you may know that the company of my nephew and the aim of giving him as fatherly (or motherly) a care as I was able to do, kept me a little more busy, something which really was a pleasure for me. It was a great thing to tell and show this youth all these wonders he had never seen before. The boat was more beautiful than the one I went over on and we both kept busy enjoying ourselves to the fullest extent.

"July 19th, and we arrived in New York on a beautiful Sunday morning. Two of my brothers were waiting for us at the pier. The most glorious thing for my nephew was the first sight of the New York sky line, the sight of the Statue of Liberty. Who wouldn't be impressed with such a sight. Every American is proud of it.

"I don't need to assure you, that I was happy again to come back to you, to come back to America. While I enjoyed my trip, I still would advise all those Americans who always find fault with their country and their government to go to Europe for a trip and I feel sure that they will come back better Americans than they ever were."

BIRTH CERTIFICATE IMPORTANT RECORD

AUSTIN, Nov. 29.—"The registration of a person's birth forms a legal record that is frequently the most important document in that individual's life," said Dr. W. A. Davis, State Registrar, Bureau of Vital Statistics.

"With the passing of the laws relative to Old Age Assistance and Unemployment Insurance, many citizens will be called upon to produce their birth certificate to prove identity and eligibility for pensions," he said, "and many difficulties are being encountered because of the death of relatives and friends who were in attendance at the birth. The State Board of Health has provided for the registration of unregistered births, giving the information necessary under these new laws. Blank forms are furnished by the Bureau of Vital Statistics, State Department of Health, Austin.

"The parents of the child born more than sixty years ago did not have the same opportunity to protect their child's rights by having the birth recorded, as the parents of a baby born in this Centennial Year in Texas.

"Each parent in Texas should be able to say that his child's birth has been recorded in the State Bureau of Vital Statistics. A properly prepared and filed birth certificate is sure to be necessary to your child at some time in his life and may be the means of avoiding many legal difficulties in later life. It is your duty to see that he has this protection.

"The State law provides that where a physician, midwife, or other person was in attendance upon a birth, it shall be the duty of such person to file a certificate of birth in accordance with the laws herein. The law states further that where the above stated persons were not present, it becomes the duty of the parents or other aware of the birth, to make known such facts to the local registrar within 5 days.

"A properly recorded birth certificate is the legal record establishing the fact that you are a citizen of the United States and entitled to protection of your rights under the laws of this country."

The Anson Western-Enterprise, under the editorship of L. P. Hensley has done its part, and more, to create in the minds of the people of the county the thrill of having an annual affair in their city in memory of the old-timers who helped make West Texas a "fittin' place in which to live. Last week Mr. Hensley contributed most of 16 pages, special, to the "Cowboys' Christmas Ball." The paper was full of historical settings in addition to current news and advertising. The Western-Enterprise indicates that their oldest paper was the Texas Western and later was combined with the Enterprise—making a suitable name to last as long as the County exists. The Herald, the baby paper of the county, values such historical background enough to file the last issue of the Western-Enterprise along with OUR 32nd year. Congratulations, Mr. Hensley and Anson.

HERALD EDITOR RECEIVES
WELCOME CHRISTMAS PRESENT

Last week the Expressman brought into our office a beautiful bushel basket of fruits, decorated in the colors of the season. He says, "Here's a present fit for a king, from McAllen, Texas, from Brother J. A. Young." Did WE smile? Did we feel grateful? Indeed, we did. To be remembered by such a wonderfully good man like Brother Young, and to receive such a treat at this season of the year, made one's heart jump and thrill with many emotions.

Everybody about Hamlin knows Brother J. A. Young. And the word "young" prompts us to say that indeed Mr. Young is growing younger every year, in heart and kind spirit, notwithstanding the fact that he has reached a ripe age. He came to Fisher County in the early days, after living in Austin. (By the way) Mr. Young helped build the beautiful state capitol in his youthful days. Several years ago oil was discovered on his good farm and near his old home-place are now many producing wells. In recent years he visited friends in the Rio Grande Valley and having a good eye for good things, he invested in a Citrus Fruit property. It is now producing and what nice fruit it is! Each December he "goes South" and escapes the biting freezes of Fisher County, enjoys the balmy sunshine and flowers and fruits of his "South Texas Garden." Mr. Young, we thank you for the grapefruit, the oranges, the tangerines and for that lovely orange branch. Yes, sir, Santa has already visited Ye Editor and family.

HAMLIN MEN OFFER THE KING A WELCOME

Last week, the Herald editor, in conversation with some Hamlin folks, remarked that if England did not want their "real man King" there are plenty of places in America that will welcome him. Even Hamlin. That very day there went out from this little West Texas town, a telegram to King Edward telling him that his Hamlin friends welcome him to our community and here he can marry whom he pleases. The telegram was signed by "friends" to the King. But the Associated Press would not carry it through the news channels without the names of the "friends" so, all over the land the names of J. Starr Inzer, Arlie Cassle, Forrest Greenway, John Ed Day, Coy Fielder and Fed Britton, went sailing. So that's that. 99 per cent of the people back up these boys in their feelings, too.

WISE CHAPEL ITEMS

 DEAN C. WHITE
 TEXAS STATE COLLEGE FOR WOMEN

It is a poor ambition that permits a man to desire pity. Slamming the door never caused a kindly thought. Old people may ride, but youth will always ride in the saddle.

Some people hop in front of the crowd that has already started and call themselves leaders. A homely person does not have to get over being beautiful. Anything gained by underhand methods is not worth having. Knocking another compliments him while belittling yourself. If your feelings are healthy, no one is strong enough to wound them.

PATRIOTISM OF PEACE

A FEW years ago it was my privilege to travel in Palestine. I had always read of the Palestinian shepherds, had seen them on canvas through the artist's eyes, and most of all remembered my mother's interpretation of the Twenty-third Psalm of David, who after a life of battles and war, loved to recall the peace of his boyhood shepherd days.

Anyone who has seen Palestine's rocky, dry and treeless horizon, except for a few pale green olive trees, can appreciate more what David meant when he said "He maketh me to lie down in green pastures, he leadeth me beside the still waters." Ordinarily there were no green pastures nor still waters, for the craglike steep mountains and rushing streams forbade such quietude in Palestine. Calm and secluded spots, however, are made at certain days' travel for shepherds and sheep, hollowed water basins and small level green pastures. At each quiet pool one finds a vessel the size of a barrel sunk in the ground and filled with olive oil, beside it a cup. After coming over precipitous mountainous trails through thorns and briars, the kindly shepherd always cared for the wounded sheep with the healing olive oil. The Psalmist meant this when he said: "Thou anointest my head with oil, my cup runneth over."

Our guide through Palestine was a very highly educated native of Jerusalem. He had traveled in this country and had written extensively for magazines.

I asked him if he would stop our car when we met the first shepherd on the road. This he promised to do. While we were riding he told this story. As there was extreme poverty in Palestine, many times the people had scarcely enough to eat. Palestine's main industry was sheep raising. They take great pride in their flocks, which are Angora. They have great bushy tails that usually reach the ground. This special breed of sheep has been Palestine's special livelihood. A foreigner one day came to Palestine to buy a sheep in order to obtain this breed. He offered a shepherd what seemed a fabulous sum.

Strangely enough the foreigner was refused. "If I were to accept this price," the shepherd told him, "I might profit but what would my poor countrymen do, if I were to let our Angora sheep go to another country. I cannot do it—I would be selling my country's birthright—it would be a betrayal." So the sheep was not sold.

Modern Gulliver Helps the Little People • • • By Knott

One year ago regional headquarters of the Resettlement Administration were set up in Dallas. Since that time, loans have been made to 35,808 Texas farm families who were unable to obtain from any other source the finances needed to carry on farm operations. Many of these families had been forced to quit farming for lack of tools, tools and supplies, but as a result of Resettlement aid are now self-supporting again. More than one million dollars of the ten million dollars loaned has been repaid, although the loans were made for up to five years.

The next step is to aid landless farmers in becoming landowners, and tenant families are now being nominated as prospective purchasers of 588 farms, the land for which has already been optioned or purchased.

The above cartoon by John Knott appeared in a recent issue of the Dallas News.

From Rags To Riches . . .

In Waco, Texas, the Methodist Home is giving these three young ladies another chance at life. Their lives might have been another story except for the Superintendent of the Home, Mr. Hubert T. Johnson.

The picture at the left shows the children as they were found surrounded by filth and squalor. The oldest was acting as a little mother, obtaining the meager food from "somewhere," preparing and cooking it for the little family. Her problem was a tremendous task for one so young, as you can imagine.

Looking at the picture you can realize that if these three children were permitted to live by themselves through the winter, a thousand dangers might have swamped them and cast their lot among the hundreds who die of pneumonia and malnutrition every year.

The picture at the right shows the marvelous transformation which has occurred within the last few months. Now they are normal children enjoying a bed and wardrobe for each. Many opportunities will be open for them for advancement and proper education.

This case is only typical of hundreds of duplicate cases which are handled by the Methodist Home in Waco, Texas. Hundreds of boys and girls find new life in the Home which is supported by Methodism. Taking care of these children would require about $600,000 a year, but because the children, as they grow older, take turns at farming (raising cattle, gathering crops and fruits, do their own laundry, help wait on the table and do the many other things which train them to become efficient and self-dependent, their needed financial assistance is only about $100,000 a year.

H. W. Hanks, pastor of the Methodist Church would like to answer any questions about the Methodist Home for children if anyone in the community is interested. Rev. Hanks says that the month of December has been set aside by the Church for donations toward the annual budget.

Members of the Hamlin Methodist Church are intensely interested in the Home and hope that many more transformations such as the above photographs show will be made possible by the continued support of the Home.

Floyd Wilson is going about since last Thursday with a walking stick. Floyd had a narrow escape last Thursday night when someone struck him with a car. It was wet and slippery and Wilson slid a distance. The wheels evidently could not jump his large body to break any bones. He was taken to the hospital and was soon able to get out. His head and right leg were bruised painfully. It was too serious to be fun, Mr. Wilson said it made him "sore."

CLAMMY CLOTHES

Experience teaches us that one sure way to "catch cold" is to venture out of doors wearing damp clothing. You may have an equally unhealthy condition right in your own home if you are troubled with "sweating walls."

All air contains some moisture. If the air contained no water vapor it would be exceedingly unhealthy. On the other hand, there is an erroneous impression that the higher the moisture content, the more healthful the atmosphere. It is especially unhealthy to permit the humidity or moisture content to reach the point of dampness. No doubt you have noticed the damp, clammy condition that exists in the room atmosphere when "sweat" collects on doors, walls and windows when heated rooms are tightly closed during the winter season. Under this unhealthy condition the clothing of those remaining in the room becomes partly saturated with water vapor. As the persons go from a heated room into a cold one, the water vapor condenses into moisture. The chilling effect is the same as going out into cold weather with damp, clammy clothing. The possibility of serious results to health is obvious.

"Sweating" walls are most commonly experienced in homes that use open flame types of individual room heaters exclusively but fail to provide adequate ventilation. The unvented open flame heater is practical and can be used with great satisfaction if applied properly. Excess moisture in the air of the home can be reduced to a minimum. Simply provide adequate ventilation in the room through a slightly opened window. Keep connecting doors open so that a natural circulation of pure, warmed air prevails from one room to another.

For your health's sake, and to obtain the greatest value from the fuel you use, heat your entire house during the short winter season and provide adequate ventilation.

The common cold germ shows no favor. Invisible but dangerous, this Number One Enemy of Public Health skulks like a bandit of the night ready to rob you of good health.

ENSEY MARKET HAS

NEW MARKET FIXTURES

A. D. Ensey is again demonstrating that he is a live wire, and means to keep up with the latest and best in merchandising. His store has had a market all the while, with J. M. Lane as market-man, but last week Mr. Lane moved his equipment to Haskell where a new store is opening.

Mr. Ensey went to Dallas Thanksgiving and purchased a beautiful modern 12-foot porcelain Frigidaire Market Counter. To go with this new equipment is a new market man, Mr. Bernard F. Meeks of Amarillo, a young man who has had 12 years experience in this class of merchandising. He and his wife have apartments in the Akers residence.

Mrs. Milton Wilson and little son, Bill, of El Paso, are here to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Johnson and other relatives.

IT WAS A FORMER

HAMLIN GIRL KILLED

Readers of daily papers noticed in the press, following Thanksgiving and the meeting of the State Teachers Convention in Fort Worth, that there was a car wreck near Mineral Wells, in which two boys and one girl lost their lives.

This week, the Herald received a clipping from Mr. Isaac Holmes of Center, home of the young lady, giving a full account of the affair and the sketch of the life of the young teacher, Miss Ellene Rhodes.

Perhaps many will remember her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde E. Rhodes, who lived here in the years of 1917 and later. Her grandparents, on her mother's side were Mr. and Mrs. Louis C. Slemmons, who also resided here some years ago.

Miss Rhodes was born in Hamlin June 21, 1917. She had completed her high school work, attended Texas Tech two years, and was a teacher near Hale Center, from which place she went to attend the Teachers' meeting, and to visit her relatives at Brad, Texas, when the accident happened. The boys who were killed were Marvin Fitzgerald, age 20, of Brad, and Henry Eberlee, age 34, of Merkel. While Erby Slemmons, an uncle of Miss Rhodes was badly hurt.

MRS. ANDRUS HOSTESS

Mrs. R. H. Andrus was hostess to the General Crude Contract Bridge Club, Dec. 4, at her home on the Rotan Highway.

After three games of bridge Mrs. J. A. Nelson held high score. Appetizing refreshments were served to Mesdames C. F. Ferrell, R. P. Holby, J. A. Nelson, E. R. Richardson, Tom Vaughan, Gene Robinson, Hank Harlan, Roy Hayes, Pud Young, C. A. Thompson, and J. J. Owens.

The club adjourned to meet the next time in the home of Mrs. C. F. Ferrell on Jackson Avenue.

PARENT-TEACHERS

MET THURSDAY, DEC. 3

The third regular meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association was held Thursday, Dec. 3, in the High School auditorium, with Mrs. Brundage presiding.

Mrs. Fred Moore had charge of the program, which was a study of "Character Growth, a Home and School Responsibility." In the November meeting "Intelligence" was discussed. "Honesty" was the subject for discussion in last week's meeting.

"What Do We Mean by Honesty," was the subject of Miss Viva Milstead. "Honesty is a principle ranking at the top of character growth. It is not an in born trait and must be obtained by example."

Miss Kathryn Adkins gave some pictured examples of some of the qualities of honesty and then talked on "Let's Face the Problem of Cheating." "Striving for high grades sometimes is the cause for cheating. Teachers sometimes find they are 'teaching subjects' instead of 'educating children'."

Mrs. Moore discussed an article by Angelo Patri on "Truthfulness" and then gave the thought that so long as we travel with the scheme of things in nature we do well; it is when we try to go in an opposing direction from what was intended we get into trouble.

—REPORTER.

Conductor George Bender was taken to the Sante Fe Hospital in Topeka, Kansas, on Thanksgiving Day for treatment. Mrs. Bender accompanied him and returned last Thursday. She says Mr. Bender does not indicate just how long he will have to be in the hospital, however he is resting better. Mr. and Mrs. Newman Bender of San Bernardino, California, had visited their parents here just before they took Mr. Bender to Topeka.

Bryant-Link Co. to Hold Open House for Farmers
As Part of John Deere Centennial Celebration

"THE BLACKSMITH'S GIFT"

HOLLYWOOD FILM EPIC, Starring Monte Blue, to be One of Features of All Day Program in Hamlin, Wednesday, Dec. 16.

Bryant-Link Co., local implement dealers, will hold an all day open house and an all day program of entertainment and educational features on Wednesday in their Implement Building to commemorate the John Deere Centennial.

"The Blacksmith's Gift," a historic epic of American agriculture 100 years ago, will be one of the outstanding features of the day's program.

This remarkable picture is an all-Hollywood production, featuring Monte Blue, and that outstanding comedian of "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," Fuzzy Knight, in a dramatic story of the early settlement of the West. It relates the story of a grave problem that threatened for a time to defeat the advance of early settlers—bad tells how one man met that difficulty with a solution which changed the course in modern farming methods as well.

of American history.

In its gripping drama there is sentimentality, but the loquacious Fuzzy Knight as a gossip hanger-on offers a continuous run of comedy. Other leading parts are played by Arthur Aylesworth, Otis Harland, Anne Hovey, John Marlowe, and Claire McDowell.

In addition to this feature production, three other pictures will be shown, including "From One Anvil," a sequel to "The Blacksmith's Gift," "Her Husband's Choice," and a short news reel showing new developments in agricultural methods.

"Her Husband's Choice" is a sequel to "Sheppard & Son," shown last year. You'll see your old friends of former years, Mr. and Mrs. Sheppard; their son, Dick, their daughter, Phyllis; her soon-to-be husband, George Barkley, and Jim Brady. It's the story of a modern farm boy and girl planning to star in farming for themselves . . . their efforts to restore the family farm . . . their plans for tractors, implements, and crops . . . and how the desire for a tractor was satisfied in a very unusual way. This picture, packed with entertainment, is an education in modern farming methods as well.

Besides the entertainment features, the program of the day will include talks and demonstrations which will, in effect, be a short course in modern farming and Bryant-Link Co. extends a cordial invitation to every farmer in this area to be present for a day of pleasure and profit.

"We especially want every farm boy who is interested in becoming a better farmer to be present," Mr. Teague said. "Much of the program will be of special interest to young people on the farm."

The hosts of the day plan to make this open house one of the big occasions of the season where farmers from every section may meet and get acquainted and exchange experiences. At the same time, it will be an opportunity to learn many new ideas which will make farm operations more profitable.

The open house this year is a part of the John Deere Centennial celebration; for it was in 1837, just 100 years ago that John Deere gave to the world the steel plow.

We are expecting a large crowd next Wednesday, Dec. 16. COME! It's FREE!
